"I got sick at one point up in the mountains, I was afraid the group of strangers we were journeying with was going to leave me behind, because I couldn't walk. I had a bad fever, it was probably malaria," said Nadia.

At 10-years-old, Nadia embarked on the most dangerous journey of her life, leaving her home in Burma, attempting to cross the border through the mountainous jungles of Thailand.

"That night Nadia started praying. I was asking God to let me get to safety in Thailand with my mother."
